DETAILED ACTION

In view of the Appeal Brief filed on December 10, 2007, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. New grounds of rejection is set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) initiate a new appeal by filing a notice of appeal under 37 CFR 41.31 followed by an appeal brief under 37 CFR 41.37. The previously paid notice of appeal fee and appeal brief fee can be applied to the new appeal. If, however, the appeal fees set forth in 37 CFR 41.20 have been increased since they were previously paid, then appellant must pay the difference between the increased fees and the amount previously paid.

A Supervisory Patent Examiner (SPE) has approved of reopening prosecution by signing below:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 9, 10, 12, 18, 19, 22-25, 29, 30, 40, 42, 43, 45, 47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nakatsuka et al (US 2002/0024586).

Regarding claims 9, 18, 22.

Figure 1 illustrates a rotating scanning device (5), a light source (1), a photoconductor (8), a photodetector (10), a control system (15) where the control system receives an indication of the sampled light from the photodetector for maintaining the light source at a constant drive level, as illustrated in the flow chart of figure 2 and described in paragraphs [0068]-[0072]. The flow chart clearly illustrates comparing the monitored light power with a predetermined value [applicant's constant] and generating a laser driving signal (S104).

Regarding claim 10.

As illustrated in figure 2 the light source (1) emits in a single direction.

Regarding claims 12, 24.

As illustrated in the flow chart of figure 2 the processing circuitry performs a comparison of the sampled light with a predetermined value.

Regarding claims 19, 38.

Paragraph [0066] discloses the light source (1) as a semiconductor laser.

Regarding claims 23, 45.

As illustrated in flow chart of figure 2 the laser driving signal generation performed based on the sampled light.

Regarding claim 25,

As illustrated in flow chart of figure 2 the output is maintained at a constant level.

Regarding claim 29.

Figures 1 illustrates a rotating scanning device (5), a light source (1), a photoconductor (8), a photodetector (10), a control system (15) where the control system receives an indication of the sampled light from the photodetector for maintaining the light source at a constant power level [applicant's intensity], as illustrated in the flow chart of figure 2 and described in paragraphs [0068]-[0072].

Paragraph [0064] discloses the use of toner particles to form images [applicant's image engine].

Regarding claim 30.

As illustrated in flow chart of figure 2 the laser driving signal generation performed based on the sampled light.

Regarding claim 40.

Paragraph [0066] discloses the light source (1) as a semiconductor laser and figure 1 illustrates control system (15) controlling the laser.

Regarding claims 42, 43, 45, 47.

As illustrated in flow chart of figure 2 the laser driving signal generation performed based on the sampled light. As illustrated in flow chart of figure 2 the output is maintained at a constant power level [applicant's intensity].

Claims 14, 15, 17, 18, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hori (US 5,986,687).

Regarding claims 14, 18, 22, 27, 46.

Figure 2 illustrates a laser (LD), which generates a single beam, a scanning device (4), a photodiode (PD), a photodetector (9), a photoconductor (7), a control system (CPU), which receives the sampled light and maintains a constant drive level, as disclosed in column 4 lines 58-67. Column 5 lines 16-34 discloses the APC adjusting the laser power in accordance with a reference voltage [applicant's constant]. Figure 3 illustrates a timing chart, where the light is sampled once per line of information (draw area).

Art Unit: 2828

Regarding claim 15.

Regarding claims 17, 20.

Column 5 lines 15-18 discloses the PD first detecting the light beam.

Regarding claims 21, 28.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9, 26 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakatsuka et al (US 2002/0024586) in view of Luque (US 6,198,497).

Nakatsuka et al discloses in paragraph [0066] discloses the light source (1) as a semiconductor laser.

Nakatsuka et al is silent as to the semiconductor laser being a vertical cavity surface emitting laser diode (VCSEL).

However, the use of VCSEL in laser scanning devices is notoriously well known in the art, as described by Luque in column 2 lines 33-50 and column 4 lines 14-30.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-8, 31-37 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

After careful review of applicant's arguments and conducting an updated search none of the cited prior arts alone or in combination discloses the claimed invention with the cited limitations of independent claims 1 and 31, to include among the limitations the start-of-scan detector.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Claims 16, 44 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
